FEATURED HOME / MISSISSAUGA, ONTARIO

One lot. Two lives.

The small bungalow and completed two-storey home share a lot. Follow the neighbouring property to read the change in scale.

Original bungalow

Finished home

Mississauga, Ontario · The same property, photographed from two street positions.

A question for your lot · What do you hope to keep when the house changes?

KITCHEN / LIGHT & RHYTHM

Where the day begins.

Keep the morning ritual. Change the route between the stove, the sink and the people at the table.

Finished Legacy home

Same viewpoint · An oak kitchen study beside the finished Mississauga interior.

A question for your home · Where do you set down groceries, and what gets in the way of making dinner?

LIVING ROOM / LIVE WITH LESS FRICTION

Stay a little longer.

A room that holds a conversation and still leaves a clear path to the garden.

BACKYARD / CONNECT WITH NATURE

Give the garden a purpose.

Keep the open route from the terrace, then frame it with layered planting, a lawn and a table in the shade.

Existing Legacy home

Proposed design

Project film still and proposed design · A planted dining garden beyond the finished Mississauga terrace.

A question for your home · When you look out from inside, would you rather see an open lawn, a planted garden or places for both?

OUTDOOR FIRE PIT / CONNECT WITH NATURE

The last room of the evening.

Carry dinner outside. Leave a place to turn the chairs toward the fire as the light goes down.

Existing Legacy home

Proposed design

Project film still and proposed design · An outdoor fire court in the planned garden.

A question for your home · Should the fire sit close to the house or make a destination at the back of the garden?

BEDROOM / SLEEP & RESTORE

Make room for quiet.

Let the room change pace between the first daylight and the last lamp of the evening.

Finished Legacy home

Same viewpoint · A traditional bedroom study beside the finished Legacy bedroom.

A question for your home · What disrupts the room at night, and which view would you keep in the morning?

BATHROOM / HYDRATE

A quieter start.

The first few minutes of the day can feel very different when water, daylight and storage work together.

Layout study

Finished Legacy home

Same viewpoint · A vanity study beside the completed Legacy ensuite.

A question for your home · What should be close to hand when you step out of the bath?

SAUNA ROOM / MOVE & RECOVER

A place to warm up.

A deep timber bench, a pool of low light and a short walk to the towels.

Layout study

Finished concept

Living Well concept · A basement storage alcove reimagined as an indoor sauna and shower.

A question for your home · Would you reach the sauna from a bathroom, a workout space or the garden?

COLD BATH / MOVE & RECOVER

A moment to cool down.

Follow the water through the home. Where do you change, step in, dry off and leave a towel?

Layout study

Finished concept

Living Well concept · An older basement bath reimagined as a limestone indoor plunge.

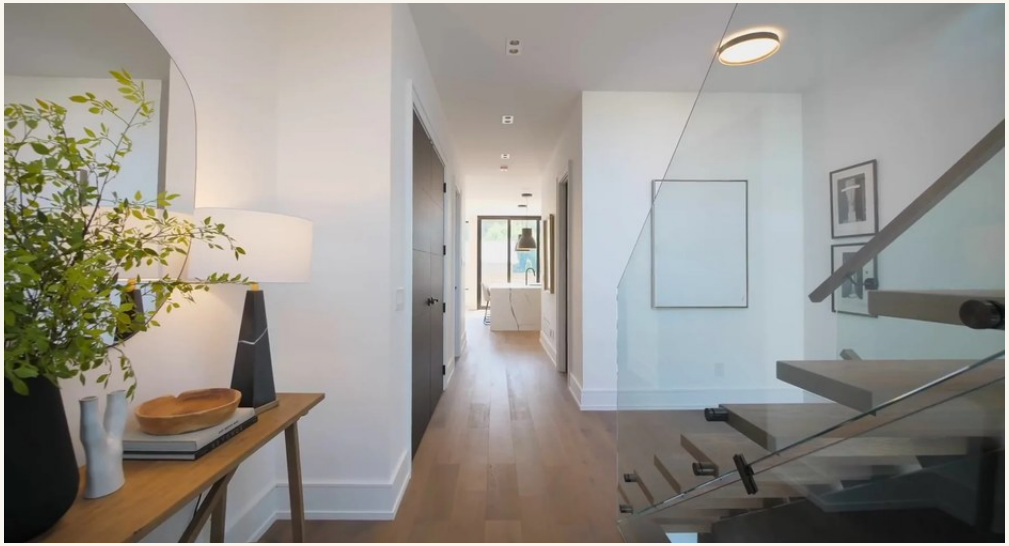

A question for your home · Do you picture this basin in a quiet wet room or beside an outdoor path?

LIVING WALL / CONNECT WITH NATURE

A wall that grows.

Bring texture and seasonal change into a view you pass every day.

Existing Legacy home

Proposed design

Project film still and proposed design · An optional planting wall at the Mississauga entrance.

A question for your home · Where would you see the planting most, and who would enjoy looking after it?
